World Fuel Services announces official membership of IDRF association

Prominent association promotes cooperation within the aviation industry

26 June 2018 – Germany - World Fuel Services has been accepted into the Interessengemeinschaft der regionalen Flugplätze e.V. (IDRF)– a leading association of more than 70 regional airports and regional airfields in Germany, as well as a number of aviation-related companies in Germany and Switzerland.

Founded in 2005, the IDRF is renowned for their impact upon optimising aviation facilities and capacities through strategic partnerships, alongside their commitment to expanding Germany’s nationwide aviation infrastructure.

World Fuel Services supplies aviation fuel to 24 emergency service bases in Germany and operates and markets at over 10 airports including Frankfurt, Berlin, Dusseldorf, Cologne and Hamburg. At Bremen Airport, where World Fuel Services is the operator, it provides exclusive fuel supply management to civil aviation, business aviation, general aviation, Airbus Beluga and Helicopter Services. Beyond Germany, World Fuel Services supplies aviation fuel at over 50 airports in Europe.

World Fuel Services also engineers, designs, builds and maintains equipment as well as delivers marketing programmes supporting customers and airports across Europe and around the world.

Mark Amor, Vice President at WFS, said: “We are very proud to have been accepted to join the IDRF. The association are champions for improving, but also growing, the aviation infrastructure in Germany which is a goal we wholeheartedly support.

By joining the IDRf's network of aviation businesses, we hope to work with, and alongside, those who are similarly dedicated to bettering our industry. We look forward to seeing what we can all collectively achieve and will endeavour to contribute all that we can to the IDRf's objectives. "
